The Student Health Advisory Committee (SHAC) is comprised of up to 22 students from various academic backgrounds and campus-community involvements. SHAC meets bi-monthly at the Health Center and is led by Dr. Garth Russo, Executive Director and Kristine Groft, Communications and Marketing Manager.

Since the health center is funded primarily by student fees, SHAC represents the student voice for health matters. The purpose of SHAC is to:

- Promote a positive and open channel of communication between UHC staff and the student body
- Increase personal knowledge of UHC operations and scope of services
- Address student health concerns
- Provide input into the provision of health services
- Foster overall health and wellbeing of UGA students
- Increase knowledge of the mandatory fee proposal process

Additionally, each semester, SHAC develops and commits to various projects and health literacy campaigns. These have ranged from Mental Wellness Summit collaboration with SGA, Yoga on the Lawn, FreshCheckDayUGA® and many more opportunities.

SHAC is just one of many factors that make the University Health Center a student-centered facility that truly offers excellence in college health care.
